A TRIP BY AUTOMOBILE.

As an eliminator of distance, the automobile is more wonderful than a railroad train. This fact is impressed on any one who goes out on long trips and, speeding along the highway in a car, takes note of what he sees.

Within the week a party of Ogdenites drove from Ogden to Star valley between breakfast and supper, and, in doing so, passed through Brigham City, Logan, Garden City, Paris, Montpelier and Afton and crossed three distinct ranges of mountains. When teams were employed, at least five days were consumed in a journey of that kind. Auto drivers can leave Ogden when the Oregon Short Line train does and arrive in Montpelier ahead of the locomotive Hunting and fishing parties out of Ogden, enjoying a week's end stay, are to be encountered on unfrequented streams, at points which seem out of the world, and they carry with them in their ears all the comforts of home.

When Ogden was a village, Star valley was unknown and so far away from the beaten paths of commerce as to be the rendezvous of those who sought to be forgotten and desired to live alone in the wilds of a sequestered valley. Today the valley of fields of hay and grain and dairy stock is just over the hills from Ogden.

There is no unusual grief in an automobile drive from Ogden to Afton, except where contractors on state roads have made no provivsion to allow the motor traffic to go by, or where a detour is encountered. The detour continues to be an outrage committed against the traveling public. The pleasure of a trip may be marred by one of these turnouts, and an entire season's travel put to great inconvenlence, when the expenditure of a few dollars would overcome all the difficulties. State contracts are said to provide for well constructed detours, but the letter of the contract in this respect is never en-

Furthermore, while new road is under construction the old highway too often is so neglected as to be made almost impassable. The placing of a small culvert over a waterway, the removal of a high center, the blasting out of a rock, the cutting down of a steep banl: are little things, entailing but little expense, which are entirely neglected during an entire season because, in a year or two, the road will be recenstructed.

The automobile associations should insist on a correction of those methods and demand better treatment.

MOSLEMS TOO LATE

Nothing would have more complicated the disturbed conditions in eastern Europe a month ago than the Moslem proclamation in favor of Bolshevism, had the religious fanatics issued their appeal at that time. With the defeat of the Russian forces on the boundary line of Poland, the red army may have been rendered comparatively harmless.

In disappear from the marriage service:

Does it make for a higher and hotier relation between husband and wife to relation between husband and wife to require a woman at the marriage altar to take a vow that she will obey her husband? No doubt there may be found a woman here and there who likes it as woman here and there who likes it.

There is no warfare so enduring and bitter as that backed by

But with the beating back of the soviet armies from around Warsaw and the bottling up, between Prussia and the Vistula river, of a large part of the defeated forces, the red peril is beginning to disappear and the Moslem call to arms is too late to cause extreme worry in the capitals of western Europe

The turning of the tide of battle seems to have been accomplished by the same brilliant French strategists who, at the first battle of the Marne, taught Von Moltke to respect the recoiling power of the men of France. When General Weygand arrived on the scene of battle, the Bolsheviki were moving over the country east of Warsaw with the irresistible sweep of a prairie fire. Quickly there was a realignment of the Polish troops, and swiftly a surprise attack was made, and suddenly the Russians discovered they were outmaneuvered and cut

No longer is the soviet government in the position of a dictator of the terms of peace. A month ago Lenine might have exacted any reasonable performance from the Poles, as to boundary lines, disarmament and trade. Now the Poles must be the conveyors of mercy if a generous treatment is to be accorded.

RADIUM AS A CURE.

There is quite a stir on at the present time over the curative powers of radium and, yielding to this latest innovation, the Salt Lake County Medical society has obtained a few grams of the salt.

These wonderful cures are to be accepted with reservations. Radium is said to operate successfully on certain forms of skin discase and to produce favorable reaction in the first stages of cancer. But it is fair to presume tests so far made are superficial. At intervals of a year or two, discoveries of specific cures for tuberculosis are announced, and the names of reputable physicians are connected with these cures. But time proves the fallacy of the new theories, and the only reliable cure is found to be nature itself when given an opportunity to attack the disease to best advantage.

The radium cure may prove to be an exception, and, if so, suffering humanity will rejoice that a new force has been added to the very small list of cures.

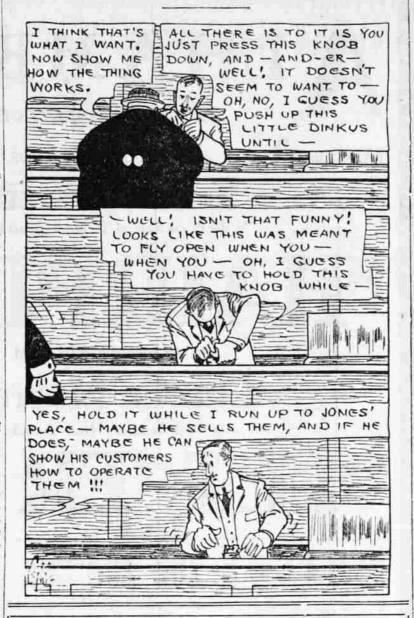

GOVERNMENT SHOULD AID. .

Our federal government has spent great sums of money on reclamation projects in the west, most of the expenditures being in irrigation projects built entirely by government funds. Here and there a failure is seen, one of which is the Fallon project in Nevada.

Inasmuch as the object to be attained in reclamation is to make more land available for home building, now and then it might be well for the government to lend assistance to irrigation districts such as the one now formed in Weber county. The benefits of expert work and direction have been extended, it is true, but the government could go further and build a great dam on South Fork, or divert the waters at the mouth of Bear Lake, and await developments for a return of the interest and principal.

There is scarcely any element of chance in the local undertaking and the direct results are to be accurately figured.
